

HOLD ON...
TO ALMOST EVERYTHING!

Tallon Marine continues to expand its line of boat accessory holders, which are all completely interchangeable in their universal mounts. New products include stainless steel wine and cup holders. A flat-screen TV mount is on the horizon, and the universal bracket can now be wired into your boat's electrical system so powered accessories can be plugged directly into the Tallon mounting bracket without having to plug-in separate cords.

IT'S THE "SWISS ARMY KNIFE" OF VHF RADIOS

This go-anywhere floating handheld VHF radio from Lowrance-Navico is like having an electronic multi-tool. The LHR-80's performance is enhanced with a built-in GPS and a simple plotter with Great Circle waypoint navigation, Man Over Board functionality and storage for up to 500 waypoints. Its large LCD screen adjusts for direct sunlight and darkness. Navico's "Track-Your-Buddy" technology allows you to exchange bearing and range with others on the system, making finding your friends on the water a one-touch operation. Wrist strap, rubber antenna, desktop charger, and battery are included.

THIS IS ONE STOWAWAY
YOU'LL BE GLAD TO HAVE ON BOARD

In raft-ups, certain docking situations and storms there never seem to be enough large fenders on board. Not so with Stowaway's Inflatable-Deflatable Boat fenders. Available in several sizes, they can be stored in a small bag complete with pump, and it takes just minutes to inflate fenders when needed. Four colors are available in both single-fender packages or kits of four with pump.

IF YOU CAN DRIVE A NAIL, YOU CAN SPLICE A LINE

Let's face it, splicing lines is something that many boat owners don't have time for, or perhaps don't even know how to do. With EZ Splice, all you need is a hammer. These little plastic fasteners can be used on any line, rope or cord to create a custom loop by driving a line of stainless steel pins through the fastener and line. EZ Splice says that during testing the lines broke before the splice failed. You can also create your own custom spring line using EZ splice with two lines and a bungee cord.

AND THEY SAID IT COULDN'T BE DONE

National Marine Manufacturer's Association judges at the MAATS show likened Wrino's new boat mooring hook to "building the better mousetrap." Wrino won the Deck Equipment Innovation Award for the way its simple design tackles multiple tasks. Lines can be attached to Wrino in four different ways to hook a line, lasso a piling, easily put a loop around a cleat, and snap a hook onto an eye. The six-foot telescopic handle has a twist lock and it floats!
